

Go ahead, flex your health care FSA!

A flexible spending account puts you in control.

Health care flexible spending accounts (FSAs) are special savings accounts that let you set aside pretax dollars for certain types of spending. Because the money you put in your FSA isn't taxed, your dollars go further. You decide how much you want to put into your FSA each year, and your employer takes it out of your paycheck in equal amounts.

Those are the basics. But when we designed our Anthem FSA, we went way beyond the basics — and we mean it when we say “flexible.” You get the flexibility of having your FSA linked with your health plan. You get one debit card you can use to pay for qualified expenses, and money is pulled directly from your FSA. Or you can pay for qualified expenses out of your own pocket and get reimbursed.

You can use your FSA for expenses like:

- Prescriptions
- Doctor Visits
- Dental or vision care
- Costs that count toward your deductible
- Copays
- Your share of medical costs

You can manage your FSA online and on the go

Just log in at anthem.com/ca or use the Anthem app. It's easy to do things like:

- Track your claims and spending
- Request reimbursement
- Check your balance
- Find a doctor
